

Summary

- Heat is energy associated with random motion of atoms & molecules in material
- Temperature tells you the average “thermal” energy (including KE & PE) of atoms & molecules
- At absolute zero ($T=0\text{K}$, or -273C , or -459F) motion of atoms & molecules in material ceases.

